

Heaven and Earth: Global Warming the Missing Science, by Ian Plimer

Review by: Philip Sansone

One might say that before Climategate there was Plimer, twice winner of Australia's highest scientific honor and a professor in the School of Earth and Environmental Sciences at The University of Adelaide, raising the alarm against the climate change alarmists and challenging the notion that the global warming science is settled. Highly opinionated, but opinions that appear to be solidly backed by data or the lack thereof, as the case may be. If you want to read one book written by a climate scientist that disagrees with the global warming proponents, this would be a good place to start.